Brownfields 2021 is Moving to September!

The goal of the National Brownfields Training Conference is to provide a networking and learning environment for the brownfields community. We are working to ensure that the venue and travel arrangements will be as safe and healthy as possible so conference attendees can continue to experience the valuable in-person education and networking opportunities that have defined the brownfields conference since 1996.

Due to the current Coronavirus (COVID-19) situation and having these considerations in mind, Brownfields 2021 will be rescheduled from its current April dates. Brownfields 2021 will now be held in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma from September 27-30, 2021.

We are committed to providing attendees with the safest and most engaging event possible, while also considering the evolving restrictions on gatherings and travel. EPA and ICMA agree that the new September dates will allow for a more robust event in Oklahoma City, especially with regards to educational sessions and networking events.
